Capacity Crowds Attended Slavonic Concert

Tombola Winners Listed; Plan on Presenting Concert At Blaimore.

On Sunday, March 22, the Slavonic Concert committee sponsored a concert which was so successful and so largely attended that over one hundred people were turned away that they presented the same program on Sunday, March 29. Again the Polish hall was filled to capacity and again people were turned away. The committee now plans on taking the artists to Blaimore to give a concert in that town.

On Sunday, March 22, speakers were heard from various organizations, they being Councillor Ford, W. Dutil, president of the local Red Cross, and J. Kryszka, W. Hollik and Louis Bubiak representing the Polish, Ukrainian and Slav organizations respectively.

The program was well balanced with vocal and instrumental music, national dances in costume and recitations. The artists had given their time to long hours of practice and it was shown in their excellent performance.

The tombola draw was made on the first night and resulted in the following winners: waffle iron, M. Proc, Coleman; rug, N. Donaluk, Fernie; pyrex double boiler, N. Strock, Coleman; rug, Mrs. R. F. Mitchell, Coleman; pyrex percolator, Mrs. J. Krkosky, Blaimore; pyrex sauce pan, Mrs. M. Koser, Natal.

The concert and tombola was a financial success and the proceeds will be distributed between the Canadian Red Cross, the Polish, Ukrainian, and Russo-Slovak Aid to the Fatherlands.

The concert committee is well pleased with the support given their efforts and thank all who attended or contributed in any way to the concert's success.

Youths Cut Air Hose

Some thoughtless youth or youths cut the air hose at Coleman Motors on Tuesday evening. Luckily manager Sid Emery came past the garage at 1 a.m. Wednesday and his attention was drawn to the noise of escaping air. Had no one noticed the cut tube it would have resulted in the air compressor working throughout the night, adding to power costs.

The air hose is left out at night for the convenience of the local motoring public who drive up in the early morning to put air pressure in their tires. These motorists may be penalized, however, if some thoughtless youths create more damage to the hose.

MASONIC LODGES TO MEET HERE APRIL 7

A joint meeting of all Masonic Lodges in the Crows' Nest Pass will be held in Coleman, on April 7, in the Italian hall, at 8 o'clock. This meeting will be attended by Grand Lodge officers, and will be addressed by M.W. Bro. Geo. F. Ellis, of Calgary, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Alberta, and R.W. Bro. T. J. Cumberland, D.D. G.M., of Pincher Creek. A cordial welcome is extended to all Masons, and visiting brethren in this district to attend.

Redisky Sparks Kimberley in Allan Cup

Lethbridge on Verge of Elimination; Kimberley May Reach Western Final.

Benny Redisky, former local player, is the real sparkplug behind the surprising Kimberley Dynamiters as they play against Saskatoon Quakers for the right to advance into the western Allan cup final against the winner of the Port Arthur—Lethbridge series. Redisky has been either scoring or assisting in goal scoring to help Dynamiters take a 2-1 lead in games over the Saskatchewan champions, in a best 3-in-5 game series.

As this is written Port Arthur has Lethbridge reeling on the ropes and ready for the knockout punch which may be delivered on Wednesday evening at the Lethbridge arena. However, Lethbridge may still come back on their own ice to prolong the series.

Hockey fans throughout western Canada are watching with interest the surprising Kimberley team who were next door to elimination when opposing the Lethbridge Leafs in the ABC league play-offs. However, financial failure voted to sponsor an auction sale which is expected to net over $1,000 which will be used to distribute among local and national war charities.

The auction sale is replacing the once popular carnival for raising money and has been successfully promoted in Calgary and a number of smaller centres. Stewart Murdoch was appointed chairman of this committee, with Harold Houghton as his able lieutenant. A Balloch was appointed to the publicity committee.

REPORTS FIRST ROBIN

Sid Emery was the first to report robins in town this season. On Friday morning when passing the Dr. Rose residence on Third street he noticed two robins fitting about the trees in the yard. To-date no one has reported the arrival of the bluebirds.

Lions to Sponsor Monster Auction Sale on Main Street Saturday, May 9

Air Cadets and Lions to Make House-to-House Canvass For Old Radios, Furniture, Tools, Etc.; Drama Festival Postponed TILL April 17.

The Lions club on Monday evening voted to sponsor an auction sale which is expected to net over $1,000 which will be used to distribute among local and national war charities.

The auction sale is replacing the once popular carnival for raising money and has been successfully promoted in Calgary and a number of smaller centres. Stewart Murdoch was appointed chairman of this committee, with Harold Houghton as his able lieutenant. A Balloch was appointed to the publicity committee.

It will require a big effort to put the auction over and the co-operation of the council and townspeople will be solicited. The services of a professional auctioneer will be secured from Lethbridge. The air cadets and the Lions will make a house-to-house canvass of all stores and homes for material for which owners may not have further use, but which may be needed by someone else. Already a chestful has been promised the committee. A radio store has promised a number of second-hand radios and cabinets. Youngsters interested in building radios will find a wealth of material which they can have by only making a bid at the sale. Pianos will be secured and auctioned, gramophones will be there in beautiful cabinets suitable for making into china cases. There will be hundreds of different items gathered throughout the town. It is proposed to store the material in the arena till the day of auction.

The council will be asked to co-operate by allowing the sale to take place on main street. A heavy advertising campaign in Pass papers will endeavor to bring hundreds of people from the Pass towns. A dance will be in the community hall in the evening to wind up the program. This is something big and worthwhile the Lions are endeavoring to sponsor and with the co-operation of the citizens it should be an annual event in Coleman and a profitable one for all.

The drama festival, which had been originally scheduled for Friday, April 10, has had to be backed to Friday, April 17. Renovations to the community hall will be completed next week and the union will open the hall by sponsoring a big dance.

Columbus Club has failed to send in an entry to the drama festival and efforts are now being made to have Macleod Lions club send an entry. Bellevue high school, Coleman Drama club and Coleman Lions are busy practicing for the festival. Most of the orchestra will supply all music. Failing Macleod entering, it is proposed to invite a number of artists who appeared in the recent Slavonic concert in east Coleman last week.

Monday, April 13, the Pee Wees will be invited to a banquet sponsored by the Lions, Legion, Elks and Patterson's. Lion Bill Taylor will have a guest speaker to address the boys and an enjoyable program is being prepared for their entertainment. There are 48 boys in the four Pee Wee teams.

Spiteful People

Last week The Journal unwittingly provided material for some spiteful people to cast uncomplimentary remarks about a former Coleman citizen. This is to be regretted. It is too bad that some people, ever on the alert to lay hands on something which gives them an opportunity to vent a pet spite, cannot read a story as it is written without taking from it meanings which only they can see, and which they use to cast spiteful little slurs against someone who may enjoy a little more worldly comfort than they. The Journal apologizes to the former Colemanite for being so careless as to provide material for these spiteful people.

SURVIVED PRINCE OF WALES DISASTER

Word was received this week by Bert Collier, of Ironside & Park, that his nephew, William Collier, a crew member of the ill-fated Prince of Wales battleship, is safe at an Allied eastern base following the sinking of Britain's number one battleship by the Japanese air force. Anxiety had been felt for the young man's safety till this week when Bert's mother received a cable from her son in England stating that William was safe.

17 Polish Youths Based at Medicine Hat Air School

Local Polish Society Plan on Entertaining Boys in Near Future.

Word has been received by officers of the Pass Polish society that seventeen of their countrymen have recently arrived at Medicine Hat as members of an R.A.F. unit.

These boys, it is understood, do not understand the English language very well and as only two Polish families reside at the Hat it is thought they would be rather lonely outside of working hours.

Information is now being sought by Pass Polish officials to find if it is possible to have the group given a short leave of absence in order that they be allowed to visit the Pass as guests of the Pass Polish citizens.

The scenic grandeur of the Rockies is expected to add to their enjoyment.

It is of interest to note that the Lions club is giving serious thought to inviting a number of youths recently arrived in the district from England to Coleman.

Youth Training Course

"The War will be won on the Home Front," stated one of our leading educationalists. This statement was qualified by emphasizing the need of training particularly in relation to nutrition.

An all too high percentage of our population is known to be undernourished, due to this lack of knowledge.

For the past four years the Dominion Provincial Youth Training plan has made available a course of training for young women just along these lines. Every phase of household work including preparation and use of foods is stressed.

A great many girls have availed themselves of this splendid opportunity and have become self-supporting.

The training school is located in one of the finest homes in Calgary and is residential.

For information regarding the course write the Home Service School 707-13th Ave. West, Calgary.

Sartoris Lumber Yard Secured As Salvage Depot

Salvage Collection Hours 6 to 8 p.m., Metals, Rubber, Paper and Foils Wanted.

Coleman's Salvage committee has been fortunate in having Charles Sartoris loan them his local lumber yard and warehouse to store all salvage secured locally.

The building is located next to the Canadian Legion and is centrally located. George Derbyshire will be in charge of collections and will be in his office from 6 to 8 p.m.

Metals, rubber, paper and foils are the materials wanted at the present time. The committee asks citizens to bring as much of their salvage as possible to the warehouse. Naturally heavy salvage will be taken care of by having a truck call and take the scrap away.

Further particulars can be secured by seeing Mr. Derbyshire or calling phone 209. The salvage depot will be open six days weekly, two hours daily. Be sure your paper and magazines are wrapped properly and securely in bundles.

Elks to Sponsor Softball League

To Form Four Teams From Lodge; Pick All Star Team To Oppose Any Pass Challenge.

Elks will take the lead this year in softball circles. Plans have already been made to form four or five teams from the lodge and form a league. This league will continue throughout the spring and summer. Other teams are at liberty to challenge the Elks and an All Star team will be chosen from the league teams to meet the challenge.

Lions will also have a team and it is more than likely that other local organizations will get teams organized so that the members can enjoy many nights of clean sport and exercise.

Pass teams are also invited to place challenges with any of the local teams and if interest is great enough it is possible that a Pass league may be formed.

The local sports field will be ranked and given a general cleanup.

Britain's Air Force Bombs Italian Bases, Factories and Shipping

After a recent low-level attack by Blenheim medium bombers on an important Italian war-factory at Locri, Calabria, British pilots reported they saw people waving at them in the streets as they flew over only a few feet above the rooftops. Direct hits were scored on the factory. The attack was part of the R.A.F.'s policy of systematic bombing of enemy embarkation ports and supply bases. National Auxiliary Services

The government has found it necessary to decide upon a change of policy in the matter of financing the requirements of such national auxiliary services organizations as the Canadian Legion, the Knights of Columbus, The Salvation Army, the Y.M.C.A. and The Navy League of Canada. Up to the present these national auxiliary services organizations, with the exception of The Navy League of Canada, have obtained the funds necessary for them to carry on their auxiliary services, of a recreational and off-duty nature, to the members of the armed forces of Canada at home and abroad through national appeals for funds to the public of Canada. Prior to 1941 these organizations carried on separate public appeals, but in March, 1941, they united in a joint public appeal. Their objective was set at $5,500,000, but this objective was exceeded and approximately $7,000,000 was received from the Canadian public. These funds were held by the Canadian War Services Fund Incorporated and released from time to time to the organizations as required.

It had been agreed that The Navy League of Canada should join with the other national auxiliary services organizations in a joint public appeal for funds to be made in the spring of this year, at a date to be announced. It had also been planned that the Canadian Red Cross Society should join in this united public appeal with the above mentioned national auxiliary services organizations. Consideration was also being given to the claims of other organizations for leave to join in this appeal.

A Heavy Budget

The total budgets of all these organizations were estimated at from seventeen to twenty million dollars. In order to permit such a public appeal the government would have had to stand aside for a considerable period of time and leave the field clear for the national public appeal of these organizations. This would have involved, among other considerations, the interruption of the government's appeal for funds through the sale of war savings certificates.

The heavy financial demands upon the government for the efficient prosecution of the war and the additional amount required during the coming fiscal year for war purposes made it necessary for the government to give careful reconsideration to the plans for the joint public appeal for funds which had been proposed. The government has now decided to finance from the public Treasury the requirements of the Canadian Legion, the Knights of Columbus, The Salvation Army, the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. for the rendering of their auxiliary services to the members of the armed forces of Canada, at home and abroad in military establishments in camp or in barracks areas in Canada, special defence areas as designated by the Director of Auxiliary Services and the National War Charities Funds Advisory Board, Newfoundland and Overseas. The hostel operations of The Navy League of Canada for the men of the Navy and the Mercantile Marine will also be included. There will therefore be no public appeal for funds this year by the above mentioned six organizations.

Only One Appeal

Similar action is, however, not possible in respect of the activities of the Canadian Red Cross Society. This organization must continue to be of a voluntary nature in order to maintain its international character and its convention obligations. It is different in its nature from the national auxiliary services organizations above referred to and its requirements cannot be met in the same way. There will therefore be a national drive for funds by the Canadian Red Cross Society during the late spring of this year at a date to be announced later. This public appeal for funds will be for the purpose of enabling the Canadian Red Cross Society to discharge its functions as an instrument of mercy in time of war.

It is estimated that the amount which the Canadian Red Cross Society will seek from the public in its next public appeal will be for more than $8,000,000. This appeal for funds will run concurrently with the government's programme of financial appeals. It is felt that it can do so without any great interference with such programme, in view of the fact that a much less amount will be sought from the public than if a joint public appeal, including the amounts required by the national auxiliary services organizations, were held.

Belgian Defiance

Anti-Nazi Signs Appear On The Streets Of Brussels

An Independent Belgian News Agency report that has come into the BBC shows that Belgian defiance of the Germans is no less stubborn in this war than in the last one. Inhabitants of Brussels, it appears, recently awoke one morning, to find the roads in the main boulevards of the town bearing anti-Nazi slogans. White imprints proclaimed: "Down with Hitler Long live England Hurrah for the R.A.F. Long live de Gaulle."

These inscriptions had been made at night by a car equipped with cleverly cut-out tires covered in white paint.

At midday, before a group of gazing spectators, squads of street-sweepers were still trying with brushes and axes, to remove the lettering—B.E.C. Bulletin.

Canadian factories produced more than 25,000,000 pairs of leather foot-wear during 1939.

Income Is Ample

Concealed Taxes On Wages Boost Hitler's Fabulous Wealth

The London Sunday Times said that German heavy industry provides Hitler with a private income of at least $12,000,000 annually, a portion of which is used "for secret payments he makes to those whose support can be bought."

The paper said that industry raised the fund—known as the Adolf Hitler Spende de Deutschen Wirtschaft—from concealed taxes on wages.

Deposited in a private banking account, it supplements Hitler's other income of between $21,000,000 and $40,000,000 annually from the Zentral Verlag, the biggest German publishing organization which controls two-thirds of the German newspapers, and much of the book publishing business, the paper said. It was charged earlier that Hitler had confiscated the publishing business largely from Jews.

What's In A Name

"What's your name?" the store manager asked the young applicant for a job.

"Ford," replied the lad.

"And your first name?"

"Henry."

"Henry Ford, eh?" remarked the manager with a smile. "That's a pretty well-known name."

The boy looked pleased. "Yes, sir," he replied proudly. "I've been delivering groceries around here for two years now."

Have No Illusions

Peoples Of Far East Know What Jap Domination Means

Japan may be able to find a few Quislings in the Philippines, Malaya and elsewhere in the Far East; but these Quislings will not be able to rally many natives to the support of Japan's so-called co-prosperity sphere. The peoples of the Far East who have been subjected to British imperialism, Dutch imperialism, French imperialism or the American brand, as practiced in the Philippines, may not be enthusiastically pro-British, pro-French, pro-Dutch, or pro-American; but certainly they are not pro-Japanese. They have no illusions concerning the beneficence of Jap domination. They have seen Japanese imperialism at work in Korea and in Manchukuo; and they want no part of it.

They know that Jap dominance means complete degradation and virtual enslavement of the native population, as it has in Korea; that it means obliteration of all native culture, customs and language; that it means Japanese merchants take over all businesses; that all government jobs that can be filled by Japanese will be filled by Japanese; that where a native has a government job, his pay will be half that of a Jap doing the same work. The people of the Far East have seen the Jap machine at work in Korea; they know how the Jap police force operates in occupied lands; they know its story of torture, of floggings with bamboo canes, and of the indignities suffered by women and children. They know that in Seoul alone in March, 1919, more than 11,000 Koreans were bogged because of an anti-Jap demonstration.

The Asia-for-Asiaties movement has a tremendous following among the peoples of the Far East—but not in the Jap version of it. They know that, insofar as Japan is concerned, Asia for the Asiaties means Asia for Japan.—Chicago Daily News.

Praise For Churchill

British Prime Minister Never Gives A Thought To Himself

The War Worker, organ of the Canadian Federation of Labor, says: Winston Churchill is blueblood. He's one of those lucky fellows—always has been—with enough cash to live on in enjoyment and enough brains to enjoy life. He needn't have done a tap.

Yet he's the world's greatest war worker—and producer. Why? Because he's got eye, mind, heart and soul fixed on one goal—victory. There's nothing he won't do, no sacrifice he won't make, to get there. Which means he's man enough to put country before self. He's proved that, many times.

Who wanted to quit as head of the Admiralty so that he could fight with a naval brigade in Belgium during the last year?

Who stepped down from the British Cabinet when his Prime Minister told him public opinion demanded it?

Who warned that Hitler was in earnest while Britain slept, and risked being boycotted for ever by the appeasers who were running the country?

Who reached over the heads of all the Tories to shake the hand of Ernest Bevin and give him a cabinet seat?

Who took upon himself, without consulting Parliament, to tell the world "Russia is our ally" a few hours after Hitler turned the blitz eastward?

Who has turned out unpopular cabinet colleagues, shifted generals, kicked overboard deep-rooted Army and Navy tradition?

Churchill.

Look at his record. Never has he refused to fade out when his country's interest demanded it; and never has he tried to snatch a cabinet job when his personal interest might have cashed in. Churchill? Say, there's one individual who doesn't give a hoot for Churchill. That's the man himself.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.

By Alan Maurice Irwin

All you old soldiers know what "pozzey" is but how many of you can tell us where the word came from? And don't ask me. All I know about it is that "pozzey" is jam in the Army. That is to say jam is "pozzey" in the Mess Room but when you come to another Army phrase—one of derision, applied to someone who seems to be asking quite a lot, it remains "jam." The phrase: "What do you want, jam on it?"

All this isn't so far beside the point as it may seem. By the time a man says, "Give the pozzey down here," he's a soldier.

Mind you didn't get to be a soldier by learning Army slang but by the time he is a soldier he has learned many a new name for commonplace objects.

He doesn't know just when he becomes a soldier. I doubt if any of his officers could tell you either. But somehow, suddenly or gradually, the civilian in battle dress changes into a soldier in uniform.

Of course he takes the first step in the direction of becoming a soldier when he enters the recruiting office and volunteers to serve his King and Country. From that point on the metamorphosis is a steady progression.

Enlisting is really quite a simple procedure. And this time it is even better handled than it was when I was a young soldier. Nowadays you can walk into a recruiting office, give particulars of yourself; get a medical examination, including X-ray, that would cost you ten dollars in civilian life, and report right away to a District Depot where you are outfitted with uniform and equipment.

At the District Depot new recruits get their first introduction to Army life. They are taught how to wear their uniforms and equipment, how to conduct themselves in a soldierly manner in public, how to salute and when, and the rudiments of military training.

Their stay at the District Depot is made as short as possible—it is realized that a man who volunteers for service anywhere is anxious to get down to the business of learning to fight as soon as he can.

By the same token it is realized that when he gets to a Basic Training Centre the new recruit doesn't want to see the awkward hours of instruction in soldierly conduct and bearing and Canadian Army traditions.

At the Basic Training Centre training begins. Each day the new recruit learns something. It is no longer a dreary round of: squad drill without arms; saluting; the manual of arms; squad drill with arms; platoon drill; company drill ad infinitum. There is drill, of course. There has to be if you are going to mould a group of men into a team. But drill is interwoven with instruction in the use of the rifle and bayonet, the light machine-gun, the two-inch mortar. There are lectures and entertainments. Competitions enliven Army life and put a zest into the work that must be done.

Good food and lots of it builds muscle in place of the fat worked off by good exercise and lots of it—and by the time the recruit ends his basic training he has become a soldier. There is still lots for him to learn—that comes when he goes on to an Advanced Training Centre but by the time he gets there he is a soldier. He looks forward to the new things to be learned with interest and enthusiasm—there are new tricks of the soldiering trade to be picked up. Civilian life is behind him. Ahead there is a duty to be fulfilled and far ahead of that again that strange existence a soldier finds hard to understand—civilian life.

Two Million Acres Should Be Sown To Flax This Year

Flaxseed production of 20,000,000 bushels in 1942, compared with 6,473,000 bushels last year, is being aimed at by the Dominion Government, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said.

He said the program is being encouraged because normal sources of imported vegetables oils have been cut off by war in the Pacific. To provide the total production sought, at least 2,000,000 acres should be sown to flax in 1942. The five-year average acreage in 1936-40 was 311,180 for the prairie provinces, the area of main production and where the bulk of the increased output of 1942 will be found.

BRITISH RAID ON ST. NAZAIRE MOST BRILLIANT AND DARING EXPLOIT SINCE THE LAST WAR

London.—The British commandos, sailors and airmen who raided St. Nazaire Saturday returned home to a heroes' welcome Sunday amid acclaim that their dock-shattering attack was the most brilliant and daring British amphibious operation since the famous first Great War raid on the Zebrugge Mole in Belgium. Even as they returned the R.A.F. was busy again across the channel.

Informed quarters said there was probably a large percentage of casualties, but nevertheless they pronounced the raid a great success.

The explosion of the former United States destroyer Campbelltown, fitted out as a time-bomb with five tons of explosives, was sufficiently heavy to "wreck the docks and kill anyone within 100 yards, an informed source said.

Before the ship blew up it had been rammed into the main gate of the dock—commando soldiers, their faces blackened even to the teeth to help hide them in the pre-dawn darkness, swarmed ashore from the destroyer to blow up the pumping station and the dock operating gear.

Meanwhile a motor torpedo boat slipped through a curtain of fire from German coast guns and fired two delayed-action torpedoes at the U-boat basin, which is believed to have been the base for submarines which in the last few months have ranged as far west as the United States coast to attack shipping there.

The story as told in Sunday night's communiqué left little doubt that the main dock of this key German-held French dock had been blown to bits. Cheers went up for the returning raiders as they were landed at a British port Sunday by a destroyer flying a white ensign at half mast. The wounded were grinning triumphantly as an army band met them with the national anthem.

It was agreed this was the greatest British exploit of this type since the submarine C-3, loaded with explosives, rammed between the piles of a viaduct and exploded at Zebrugge April 3, 1918.

The St. Nazaire operation, said the British account, threw the Germans into a panic. One of their six-inch guns fired on and sank one of their own anti-aircraft ships as her crew fought the retreating British forces. The Germans, in the confusion, "fired indiscriminately at friend and foe," the announcement said.

It said that "full withdrawal" of the attacking forces appeared to have been prevented by German machine-gun fire. Five German torpedo boats about the size of British destroyers were driven off during an attack on the retreating British forces.

R.A.F. bombers and fighters covered the naval and land operations during the whole raid, but were able to carry out only small diversionary bombing because of low clouds. Generally bad visibility created conditions making a heavy aerial attack highly dangerous to the neighboring French civilian population.

Even as the commandos were being returned to Britain R.A.F. planes swept across the channel in their mounting spring offensive, following raids Saturday night on Lubeck, the most important German port in the western Baltic sea. There were no immediate reports of damage caused in Sunday's raids, however.

Fierce fires were left burning at Lubeck by the strong force of bombers. The German raid acknowledged the raid, blandly claiming no military damage was done and that only "houses in the residential districts" were hit.

CLOTH RESTRICTIONS

Order Of Wartime Prices And Trade Board Now In Effect

Montreal.—The wartime prices and trade board issued an amendment to its order of March 5 restricting the use of cloth in the manufacture of men's clothing which resulted in restrictions going into effect. In its March 5 order the board declared that certain restrictions on ready-to-wear clothing would go into effect on May 1 with restrictions on made-to-measure clothing being effective Aug. 1.

R.A.F. Causes Much Damage

Paris. Nazi authorities here placed at 7,000,000 francs (about $140,000,000) the property damage caused by the Royal Air Force in its March 3 assault on suburban Paris industrial plants which were making war materials for the Germans. The Nazis said 350 buildings were destroyed.

NEW SUGAR ORDER

Affecting The Use And Distribution For Industry And Households

Ottawa.—The wartime prices and trade board announced new orders affecting the use of sugar both in households and industry to distribute "most effectively the available supplies and to allocate this quick energy-producing food in accordance with the urgency of need."

The new orders make some exemptions from the rationing plan which became effective Feb. 10, and also add some new restrictions.

Manufacturers of condensed milk are exempted from the rationing order because milk can be shipped more easily to the Allied battlefronts in condensed form.

These orders also provide that seamen on merchant vessels and salt water fishermen when they are afloat as well as workers in isolated contractors' camps, will be allowed more than the regular sugar ration of three-quarters of a pound a week.

MAY PREVENT SALE

Prices On American Magazines Cannot Be Increased In Canada

Ottawa.—An order issued by the war prices board prevents American magazines which have recently raised their prices in the U.S. from raising prices in Canada. This may prevent their sale in Canada in future, unless the publishers are prepared to absorb a difference between prices in Canada and prices in the United States. That will be for the publishers to decide, as it is unlikely the importers of U.S. magazines would handle them at a loss.

ALLOWANCES MADE

Payment Given To Volunteers Who Will Undergo Medical Treatment

Ottawa.—Provision of free medical treatment with the object of raising the physical category of men and women who have been rejected for military service is made under an order-in-council tabled in the House of Commons by Prime Minister King.

Allowances will be paid to these men and women while they are undergoing treatment, to be given by the pensions and national health department in cases where it is believed by medical authorities a health condition exists which is "mendable."

The volunteer must agree to the treatment before it is given. The allowances will be $9 a week, and $13 a week if the patient has dependents.

The treatment will be provided when the volunteer has been certified by a competent medical authority as being a fit subject to receive medical treatment to fit him for active service within a reasonable length of time.

The volunteer must give an undertaking in writing to enlist for active service on the completion of the treatment and certification that he is fit for such service.

AWARDED MEDAL

Highest Decoration Of U.S. Army Given To Gen. MacArthur

Washington.—The award of the congressional medal of honor to Gen. Douglas MacArthur for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action against the invading Japanese forces was announced by the United States war department.

In a radiogram to Maj.-Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, MacArthur's chief of staff, President Roosevelt directed Nelson I. Johnson, United States minister to Australia, to present the medal in his name to MacArthur.

The medal is the highest decoration for valor which the army can bestow on a soldier.

ARMY DIVISIONS

Prime Minister Announces Two Additional Will Be Mobilized

Ottawa.—Prime Minister King told the House of Commons that the government has authorized the mobilization of two additional army divisions, the 7th and 8th.

Since the outbreak of war with Japan nearly a dozen new battalions have been mobilized, together with a considerable number of additional anti-aircraft and coastal defence batteries, the prime minister said.

Melbourne.—Quoting a Melbourne resident as saying, "We can't block all the openings to Australia, we have got to get out and knock the Japanese back before they can get to us." War Correspondent C. Yates McDaniel of the Associated Press declared that "this is the spirit I have seen, heard and felt everywhere."

"But national pride does not blind Australians to the danger which is facing them," McDaniel said in a broadcast to the United States.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dash to Australia by torpedo boat and plane lifted the dominion's already high morale, McDaniel added.

The immensity of the area to be defended and problems of moving tens of thousands of troops into battle positions now absorb the energy of Australia, he said.

"But with the men now under arms Australia could put up a good fight to hold her coastal cities," McDaniel declared. "And they are vital, for the loss of her coastal cities would mean for Australia the loss of her heart, her hands, and her feet."

Vast sections of the hinterland are such deserts, he said, that these areas could never offer to a retreating government "a defensive stronghold from which the war could be continued, such as Chiang Kai-Shek has in the mountains of West China."

Australian war industries are speeding up and expanding daily, he added, and "the men are in camp or in essential war work. Newspaper offices in the big cities of Australia are operating with little more than 30 per cent of their peacetime staffs; banks, goods shops, department stores, are all feeling the manpower shortage."

The government, the people and the army are rushing every preparation for a future offensive, McDaniel emphasized.

Although warmly welcoming American troops, he said, and good-naturedly declaring "our arms are long and we can open them much, much wider," Australia is doing all it can in its own behalf.

"Australia is not begging for help," McDaniel said. "Her leaders, the men and women working in her arsenals and training to fight her battles, firmly believe that Australia offers one of the best winning propositions America can hope to find."

He said that never before have the people of "this fighting race" been more sure of the job that they have to do and discussed their pride in the nation they have developed down under.

"We were a colony but we have made ourselves a nation," he quoted the Australians as saying.

THE RUSSIAN ARMY IS IN A RACE AGAINST SPRING THAWS AND REPORTED STRIKING HARD

Moscow.—The Red army, in a race against spring thaws and aided by night-striking Russian guerrillas, was reported to be newly threatening the approaches to Smolensk, 230 miles southwest of Moscow, a key German defence point which the Nazis captured last August.

The highly organized guerrilla bands were said to have killed 4,500 Germans during January and February—long before the regular Soviet army had reached that sector in the big winter counter-offensive.

The Soviet air force also destroyed or damaged several German tanks, armored cars, 41 trucks loaded with war materials, and several gun emplacements, and wrecked three locomotives and 10 railway cars, a supplementary communiqué said.

This announcement also told of the recapture of another inhabited locality on the central front where "hundreds of enemy dead were left on the field."

Massive increases in German aerial strength and multiplying Nazi counter-attacks on the ground involving, in some instances, superior German strength, were reported in Red army despatches from many sectors of the front.

More than 100 planes, raiders and defenders, fought a bitter battle over the increasingly important Arctic base of Murmansk. It was disclosed the Germans lost 11 out of 65 planes in this attack and caused no damage, a Murmansk despatch said.

From other combat areas the increase in German planes was noted. In one case they outnumbered the Russians 27 to three.

The many German counter-attacks, notably on the Kalinin front, northwest of Moscow and in the Donets basin, were described by the Communist newspaper Pravda as an "active defence" which has not wrenched the initiative from the Russians.

German despatches spoke of "the continuing thaw" in parts of the Russian battle front. They also disclosed a heavy Soviet attack on Oznatsk, German spearhead garrison 100 miles west of Moscow, which the Russians have surrounded. The Germans claimed the attack was thrown back after hand-to-hand fighting. Repeated Red army attacks also were acknowledged in the Lake Ilmen sector, Staraya Russa and in the Donets basin.

A new approach to the second front there was presented by I. Yermashev, well-known Soviet press spokesman, with an article in the Moscow News of Kuibyshev demanding that idle soldiers, guns, planes, tanks and warships be put into action.

"Now is the time to act—the anti-Hitler coalition can end Nazism in a relatively short time," Yermashev said. "Were Hitler to win a major victory on the eastern front, the other anti-Hitler major powers would be in deadly peril."

Every day is precious in this phase of the war, the article said, and "Hitler must be compelled to scatter his forces by being attacked on all sides."

THE MIDDLE EAST IS HELD IN INCREASING IMPORTANCE AS A SECOND ALLIED FRONT

London.—The Middle East appears to be Britain's second front for 1942.

There will be a continental invasion, some time in the future, but in the great battles of this year the main strength of the embattled empire is likely to be required in the Middle East, Burma and along the Allies' maritime communications.

Great hazards and difficulties of equipment, training and supply face any Allied force descending on the heavily-guarded shores of German western Europe.

These conclusions were reached after two weeks of investigating the possibility of a continental invasion this spring.

Information on which the conclusions are drawn were culled from conversations with officers of the three fighting services, experts on international affairs and Allied military observers.

Agitation for a second front is mounting. Public comment indicates the people are more concerned over it than any military enterprise since the outbreak of the war.

Agitators for a second front apparently are not satisfied with continental raids by the three services similar to that on Bruneval, where Commandos destroyed the Nazi radio station. Though the fighting services are secretive, it is obvious that the most persons consulted think such raids, involving air, sea and land forces, are an ideal weapon to keep the Germans off balance from the North Cape to the Bay of Biscay.

All the evidence is that such raids will increase in number and intensity. The Libyan front, into which Britain poured brains, men and equipment for two years, is vastly important.

Strong British forces there will divert as many Germans from the Russian front as they would if they landed in northern France, sources here declare. It was revealed recently that an entire German air fleet was sent to support Rommel's army.

The Times recently outlined British strategy for 1942 in an editorial which declared the "grand pattern" of the Allied war effort was taking shape.

This pattern, according to the Times, is: "While Russia boldly confronts the weight of German land power on the continent, Great Britain must guard her own and Russian maritime communications and must hold the crucial Middle East bridge and the Indian highway."

Many military men emphasize that a British landing on the continent would not divert sufficient troops from the Russian front to make any difference there. They are confident the Red army will check the German offensive in the spring.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Restoring Provincial Credit

After seven years of financial juggling and the breaking of contracts with its bondholders and smaller investors who were promised 5% interest, and trying to put into force legislation which would prevent creditors from collecting what was due, Alberta's Social Credit government realizes that this condition cannot continue. It has been blacklisted not only in Canada, but in Britain for the non-fulfilment of pledges entered into by the government which preceded it. It takes a long time to restore credit. As between individuals when one reneges on his obligations, so it is with governments. If individuals had broken contracts in the same manner that Mr. Aberhart's government has done, there would have been court proceedings. The government not only prejudiced itself, but it also injured the credit of individuals, who were not able to borrow money to build homes because those who had money to loan were afraid that under provincial laws their money would be tied up indefinitely or shady debtors might take refuge under Social Credit legislation.

Will Negotiate With Bondholders

Last year back-benchers of the legislature would not agree to any refunding of the provincial debt which provided an increase in the arbitrary rate of 2½ per cent. Possibly leaders in the government now find that it must conform to orthodox methods of financing if it is to be granted credit, despite Mr. Aberhart's assertions that the province could get along without borrowing. It has done so because it with-held millions of dollars due to others. On the other hand it has spent a large sum of money to no purpose in its fifth wheel banking—the so-called treasury branches, which it is asserted, instead of earning profits as the volume of business increases, actually increases its deficits. Mr. Solon Low, the provincial treasurer, evidently finds that if he is to regain the good name of Alberta he must have the support of those back-benchers who thought they could tell creditors to go to Hades and they would pay what they thought was right and when they liked. One sometimes questions if Mr. Aberhart has been leading in this financial dishonesty or has he been forced to lay-off by those in the legislature who thought the province could wiggle out of its obligations. Memories of the rebellion among his followers a few years ago, which resulted in some of them being rewarded with soft jobs, makes one wonder.

Canada's Reserve Army

Canada as a whole does not fully realize the danger of conquest by the Axis powers. It is all very well to indulge in wishful thinking that we are so far inland that such things that have happened in Britain and in European countries could not happen here. Canada can be conquered without an invasion, for if the British Empire were to fall, Canada would fall, too! That's why it has often been pointed out that Canada's first line of defence is overseas, wherever her airmen or army and navy may be needed. The prairie provinces have as great an obligation to serve in Canada's reserve army as have the young men who have volunteered for active service and who have gone overseas. It is one way in which we can back them up. If the war continues it will require men of 60 years and up to engage in some form of military service, for we have no right to be immune any more than have the older people of Britain who serve in various capacities. The appeal for recruits for the Reserve Army needs the co-operation of all of us who are not in uniform. No branch of industry should be exempt, and no patriotic firm or organization would want to be.

The Price of Fame

Recently we read an article which was very timely. It referred to the fact that we build up "Heroes" with almost Godlike worship, and then proceed to knock them down. Recently General McArthur, of the Philippines has been the "hero" and has been acclaimed as a wonder man. He is at the zenith of popularity and hero-worship. A short time ago Churchill was the saviour of Democracy, and he was acclaimed through the Democratic world as the greatest leader of modern times. Because of failures in the war for which he is not responsible, he is torn from his pedestal and criticized both in Great Britain and the United States. But it has always been so. Jesus Christ only a few days before his crucifixion was hailed as the King of Kings on the day we now observe as Palm Sunday. Then he was ruthlessly tortured. Mankind is much the same throughout the centuries, though we employ mass methods of destruction of each other which were unknown in earlier times. Sometimes one feels that our highly civilized methods are being turned to our own destruction.

The Symbolism of Easter

Though this is the third Easter season of the present war, men's thoughts turn from the material to the spiritual and all that it implies. Never did the world seem so dark as on that Good Friday when the Saviour of Mankind was crucified, yet two days later the Christian world rejoiced that Christ had risen from the dead. So do man's hopes rise eternally, no matter how hard and dark the going may be. The writer wishes to all our readers a Joyous Easter despite war's alarms and setbacks.

Letters to the Editor

The Editor,

Dear Sir:

Some time ago, during the organizing of the Second Victory Loan campaign, an item appeared in your paper stating that all churches and organizations were represented on the committee.

In last week's issue there was a write-up concerning the matter of the local salvage drive. After giving a list of the various representatives attending the meeting in question the statement was made "that other organizations were invited but failed to send representatives."

In both the above given cases The Salvation Army was neither represented or invited, and I would like definitely to make public our stand in regard to all truly patriotic ventures. As an organization we are taking a prominent part in Auxiliary War Services work, both in Canada and overseas. May I state, that as a local unit, we are in absolute agreement with any effort to assist in the prosecution of the war.

This is not an endeavor to "crash the gates" on those who are responsible for the organizing of such efforts, but lest any should think that we have not been represented because of our lack of interest or patriotism, I request that this letter be published.

Yours for Victory,
FRANK J. WATSON,
Captain.

A Voice From The North Fork

The Editor of The Journal:

Sometimes in this era of price adjusting, wage-upping and commodity controlling you hear of some broadminded citizen referring to the sons of the soil as the forgotten men, and of course we are very grateful for even that much recognition. But when you read of one of our hired help up at the capital city making a speech and totally ignoring the agricultural end of his constituency whilst putting in a big bid for pension and increased recognition for the industrial workers, we sort of get to wondering what we have done to get passed by.

Mind you, we don't want any of our miner friends to think that we begrudge them any or all the remuneration they can get for going down in the bowels of the earth and digging out black diamonds. We used to dig wells when we were pioneering this country and we were always plumb scared lest the darn things would cave in on top of us, and we reckon we would want blamed good pay for doing any kind of work underground.

But the fact still remains that in this legislative address, when he spoke in favor of pensioning workers who had labored five years in the mining business and doubling up for ten years service with state maintenance after fifty years of age, he plumb left the tillers of the soil out of it all.

We don't know whether or not this gentleman purposely ignored the agricultural end of his constituency or not, perhaps he may get in some lick for us at some future date. He may even have some elaborate plans for us such as retiring us around the half century mark and we can hardly be blamed for wishful thinking, as we reckon we would still have enough pep to enjoy ourselves in the company of some congenial companions, if retired, although we wouldn't care to try too much celebrating on ginger ale. We reckon that he probably would be well advised to leave the liquor business as is, for the present, as our hopes for a leisurely old age, sponsored by the state might not materialize if the main source of revenue were done away with.

We also hope he will take our protest in good part as we would hate to think that an adverse verdict at the polls in the crop area would interfere with his properly representing us in the legislature halls.

OTTAWA

Historic Declaration on Invasion

In one of the most important declarations of the entire session, Premier Mackenzie King has made it quite clear as to what he would do if there was any threat of invasion of this continent, this being supplied in answer to a demand from the Hon. R. B. Hanson, Leader of the Official Opposition. "My honourable friend asks, 'stated Premier King, 'what I would do in case of invasion?' 'Well, the last thing I would do would be to recruit men compulsorily for overseas. I would keep them at home and see that they were ready to meet the invasion.' And when Hon. Hanson asked another question, the Prime Minister continued in these exact words: 'I do not mind answering that. I regard the moral obligation as one not to send men overseas. But with respect to any technical limitation, should immediate necessity arise in the Panhandle or any place in the vicinity of the coast of Canada, I certainly would use the War Measures Act to see that the men were sent within these immediate areas to protect our own shores.'"

Strong Support of Plebiscite

If the strong support of the request of the Government to be freed from its pre-election pledge of no conscription for overseas is supplemented by public reaction, the plebiscite should indicate approval by a large or substantial majority. This is the present impression along Parliament Hill where it is also expected that this general support of the Government's request will be followed by a demand for an "all-out war effort" without delay, with the interpretation of the meaning of a "maximum effort" showing a difference between the opinions of the Government forces and the other political parties.

Wholesale Removal of Japanese

After much agitation and pressure by Members of Parliament from British Columbia, both Liberal and Conservative, Municipal Councils, Associations, etc., the Government is planning to effect a wholesale removal of Japanese from certain protected areas of the Pacific Coast. Moreover, it is an open secret in the nation's capital that what has been done so far is merely a start in the plan to clean up all and any potential fifth columns in those areas, with the movement being accelerated in time.

Advice to Advisers

An unprejudiced and careful scrutiny backstage in the capital of countless concrete and indisputable facts is causing this experienced observer to reveal at this critical time to the man-in-the-street throughout Canada that there are far too many engagements in this country in dangerous adventures of delusions or hallucinations about war matters in a way that is without parallel in the history of this nation. It is recognized in well-informed circles along Parliament Hill that these Canadians are patriotic but at the same time they are blind-folded, failing unconsciously to realize that their actions or attitudes hinder Canada's war effort. When any national campaign for voluntary enlistments was started, systematically and conscientiously there was an accompaniment of voices demanding forthwith establishment of universal conscription which, of course, hindered seriously such voluntary enlistments. When any national campaign for war loans was started, there followed boasting, bragging and

Alaskan Highway Through Alberta Will Boost Tourist Traffic

Existing Highways of Southern Alberta Will be Connecting Links from International Border

Recent announcement that the U.S. highway to Alaska will be built through Alberta is regarded as one of the major importance to this province, in the opinion of officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

At its last annual meeting, the A.M.A., passed a resolution favoring construction of this highway as speedily as possible and urged the full co-operation of the governments concerned.

The agreement between the U.S. and Canadian governments provide for this highway being returned to Canadian ownership after the war.

Undoubtedly Alberta will share important tourist benefit from this highway and it is essential that this province build its highway system up to a standard that will prove attractive to tourists.

Ultimately, thousands of U.S. tourists will travel through Alberta on their way northward and this province will gain in importance as one of the major tourist areas of the dominion.

swaggering claims of reckless and extravagant spending which, of course, interfered seriously in the operations of such efforts for loans. When any campaign for national unity was started, this being an essential prerequisite for waging total war, there were displays of sectional conceit and vanity on the part of some who insisted that these were only attempts to make elephants of flies or giants of lilliputs on the national scene, which, of course, undermined seriously full confidence in the nation's war leaders at a critical time.

Financial Angle of Wheat Price

It is emphasized in Ottawa that the wheat committee of the Government is not composed merely of Ministers who are concerned primarily with the production and marketing of this product but also of others who must guard the financial aspects of this problem on account of the war expenditures that are reaching a record in this year's budget. Therefore, in considering the proper price for wheat this fact is inescapable and of enormous influence in the committee's decisions.

Huge Cost of New Terminal

When it was disclosed in the capital that the new Canadian National Terminal at Montreal involved actual costs of about $25,436,793 at the end of last year, with the estimated expenditures for 1942 being about $1,900,000, it was revealed that this undertaking used no less than 3,500 tons of steel in 1940 and 1941.

Single Car Plate Plan For Alberta

Alberta motorists may carry one instead of two number plates on their cars next year.

An amendment to the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act which has been introduced in the legislature gives the provincial secretary (Hon. E. C. Manning) authority to authorize the issue of a single number plate or maker, if such action is deemed expedient.

This action has been taken in view of the expectation that owing to war conditions, there will be considerable difficulty in obtaining metal for number plates.

The marker may be a plastic or any other material which may be secured, while the form, design and manner of display will be covered by regulations.

Some other provinces this year adopted the single number plate plan, according to officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Adoption of the single license plan will be discussed at the midsummer meeting of directors of the A.M.A.

GASOLINE AND TRAVEL

The Canadian Oil Controller some time ago announced the quantities which he thought would be available to consumers for pleasure driving for the three-month period commencing April 1, 1942.

The Oil Controller indicated that the announced quantities, which were very, very reasonable, might have to be reduced in the light of events transpiring between the date of his announcement and April 1. Since the announcement the gasoline situation has become much more critical, and it is possible that the announced quantities may have to be reduced. There will be a definite announcement by the Oil Controller about this on or about the 1st of April.

'The Good Old Days' --Who Wants Them Back?

What would the small towns do without the movies? Of course they did get along without them at one time, when road shows of doubtful quality would occasionally make a tour playing "Three Nights in a Bar-room" or "The Paint and Powder Mystery," and that old pathetic drama "East Lynne" over which emotional people would weep, and the villain would be hissed. And don't you remember the silent movies, at which a budding soprano would sing the illustrated song in strident tones.

A musical score was usually sent as an accompaniment to the silent picture, but any pianist who could extemporise and play suitable music as the pictures flickered on the screen without looking at a note of music was considered a top-notch.

These were the days before picture palaces became general in the small towns, and the top floor of a store or even a made over barn was considered the place to enjoy yourself on good old Saturday night. After the show was over the proprietor or his helpers would sweep out bushels of peanut shells, gum wrappers, etc.

Pictures were crude then compared to present-day films, and even in London, it is recalled that the filming of the coronation of King Edward VII, which was produced in France with a stand-in representing the king, because the lighting was so poor in Westminster Abbey, they were in such a hurry to put the crown on the king's head that it was cock-eyed, and a woman's voice in the top gallery of one of London's famous music halls in which it was first shown blurted out in something more than a stage whisper—"Blimey, E's drunk," thereby turning the would-be sublime into the ridiculous, for everyone roared with laughter.

Strange!

"How children's tastes change as they grow up," complained the mother. "When my two were young, Johnny loved soldiers and Mary was mad on brightly painted dolls. But now Mary is mad on the soldiers and Johnny runs after every painted doll."

Crop Production Programme for the PRAIRIE PROVINCES, 1942

Canada's War Requirements Call for

A production of wheat limited to what can be sold in the domestic and export markets during the crop year 1942-43.

An unlimited production of coarse grains for live stock feeding to produce... the Animal Products and Fats needed in the Domestic Market... the Bacon, Dairy Products and Eggs Wanted by Britain.

A greatly increased production of Flaxseed to meet Vegetable Oil Needs of Canada and the United States in view of War Developments.

GRAIN MARKETING POLICY

WHEAT—Deliveries to remain limited: Price to be increased.

Authorized deliveries: 280 million bu. from Western Canada as compared with 230 million bu. authorized from all Canada last year. This 280 million bu. is believed all that can be marketed in the 1942-43 crop year; and the expected carryover of 400 million bu. at July 31, 1942, will constitute an adequate war reserve. Individual deliveries will again be determined on a quota basis.

Price: The initial price for deliveries in 1942-43 under authorized quotas will be 90 cents per bu., basis No. 1 Northern in store Fort William/Port Arthur or Vancouver. This 20 cents price increase plus higher authorized deliveries considerably enhances the wheat outlook for 1942-43 as compared with that of 1941-42. (Note: Higher delivery price of wheat not to affect the price of bread in Canada.)

COARSE GRAINS—Unlimited production.

Acreage bonuses: See adjoining column.

Price Floors: To safeguard the position of farmers who increase their production of barley and oats;

a. A minimum price is established for barley at 60 cents basis No. 2 C. W. 6-Row in store Fort William/Port Arthur.

b. A minimum price is established for oats at 45 cents basis No. 2 C. W. in store Fort William/Port Arthur. In connection with barley and oat prices, the Canadian Wheat Board is empowered to carry out the policy.

FLAXSEED—Unlimited production.

Price: A fixed price is established for flaxseed at $2.25 basis No. 1 C. W. in store Fort William/Port Arthur. Canadian Wheat Board empowered to purchase and handle all flaxseed delivered by producers in Canada during the crop year 1942-43.

WHEAT-ACREAGE REDUCTION POLICY LIMITED WHEAT ACREAGE

Since but 280 million bu. wheat can be delivered in the 1942-43 crop year, regardless of how good the crop may be, only about 20 or 21 million acres should be sown to wheat in 1942 or about what was sown in 1941.

PAYMENTS FOR ACREAGE DIVERSION

It is contemplated that $2 per acre will be paid on land taken out of wheat and either summer-fallow or seeded to barley, oats, flax, rye, peas, corn, clover, grasses, or millet. These payments are designed to assist farmers who co-operate in the wheat-acreage reduction programme and to encourage the production of coarse grains and other live stock feeds.

The above payments are to be based on the number of acres by which the farmer reduces his wheat acreage in 1942 as compared with the basic acreage in 1940. To obtain the payments the farmer must sow to coarse grains or grasses, or must summer-fallow, areas in excess of the basic 1940 acreages sown to these crops or left in summer-fallow.

The crop production programme in western Canada is intended to provide maximum quantities of agricultural products most vital to war needs and at the same time ensure a balance in production plans that will permit successful farm practice in the Prairie Provinces.

P.F.A.A. AMENDMENT

It is proposed to amend the Prairie Farm Assistance Act by removing the price restriction of eighty cents per bushel in the determination of an emergency year under the Act.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

In its March 5 order the Wartime Price Board declared that certain restrictions on ready-to-wear clothing would go into effect on May 1 with restrictions on made-to-measure clothing being effective Aug. 1.

An official of the munitions and supply department, K. H. J. Clarke, foresaw drastic curtailment of Canada's tin stocks as the only answer to conserving the Dominion's dwindling supply.

The use of enamel to decorate the ends of tin cans was forbidden by the U.S. war production board. Officials predicted a yearly saving of 500,000 pounds of raw materials used in enamels.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO DO A LAY?

Speech

As the play progresses the speech of the various members of the cast should be checked very carefully. Of course the odd word which is not part of your daily vocabulary has by this time been looked up in the dictionary, and the correct pronunciation ascertained. It may be necessary to make a practice of using this new word every day to get accustomed to it so that it will not be a hindrance every time you meet it. But it is the little every day words I wish to discuss; those little words we never think about until someone draws them to our attention, and which makes our voices heard distinctly at the back of any hall.

For instance, how often do you hear, "Mary and Joe for Mary and Joe; he told me for he told me; the of man for old man. Have you noticed how many people swallow the endings of their words: She was *sing*in'; where was he *go*in'; he was *run*in' to the store. Can you say "Entreat me not to leave thee" quickly. Do you have trouble when you come to the two 's in "not to"? Do you not often slide the one word right into the other when saying hot dog, fresh fish, fresh fried fish, fast time a big black bug, a big black bug, sister Susie sews shirts for soldiers, a cup of Cadbury's cocoa, etc.

Consonantal Sounds
Or do you notice the consonantal sound missed in the middle of words, like this: February (Feb'uary; government (gov'ernment); library (lib'ary, particular for particular; auspice, recognize for recognize, etc. Or do you hear folks add a letter thus: Accret for across, drowned for drowned, onct for once. Or have you heard consonantal sounds transposed thus: interduce for introduce, hundred for hundred, childkin for children, or do you recognize this: Wergo? for where did she go? Gesece the grade? for did you see the grade? I'm gonna gout for I'm going to go out. Or have you an acquaintance insert a vowel like this: I'llm for him, thair for there, pferrie for plainie, unbrilla for umbrella, etc.

Vowels
Or do we omit vowels in our enthusiasm: Diffrent for different, family for family, evry for every. Have you looked up the following recently: of (T'en, su'ble, cor'P's, etc.

Next week we'll change the subject. If you are writing for further information enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply—Mary Ellen Burgess, Box 326, Regina, Sask.

A Trifle Mixed

American slang, which always has enchanted the British, baffled them recently. The British Press Association gave British newspapers this version of the trans-Atlantic tongue in reporting the meeting of United States troops in Northern Ireland: "Bacon and eggs, known as 'bap-jacks' have been scarce but they will now be a regular feature of the morning diet." 2457

Help Locate Targets

Refugees From Occupied Countries Supply British Ministry With Maps

Thousands of foreign guide-books, maps, technical periodicals, directories and other reference works no longer obtainable through usual pre-war channels are pouring into the ministry of economic warfare which uses them to fix potential targets in Nazi-occupied territory.

A ministry official discussing results of an appeal for the material said that thanks to the donor of one obscure foreign reference book the whereabouts of a certain vital factory in Nazi-occupied Europe have been settled. "The book provided the missing link in a long chain of evidence," he said. "For some time we had been trying to locate the position."

The mother of a dead Royal Air Force pilot sent her son's collection of foreign maps with an accompanying note which said that if they helped to drive bombs on German objectives she would feel her boy's death had been avenged.

Refugees from occupied territories have sent hundreds of guide-books, maps and journals with pictures of factories and other key sites.

Welcome The Chance

People Of Canada Glad To Conform To Government Regulations

It may seem odd that there is almost no criticism of these measures (government restrictions), that in fact the public seem to welcome them. The explanation is, of course, that the people welcome the chance to make some direct and personal contribution to the war effort, however small, and realize that the inconveniences to which they are put weigh mightily little in the balance when against them are put the slaughter and destruction wrought upon so many countries just as anxious as this one to maintain their freedom—Ottawa Journal.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON APRIL 5

(CHRIST AND LIFE AFTER DEATH (EASTER))

Golden text: Thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. 1 Corinthians 15: 57.

Lesson: Mark 12:24-27; 1 Corinthians 15:42-49.

A Captious Question in Regard to the Resurrection. Mark 12:27-28. After the attempt of the Pharisees and Herodians to "catch him in his say" by means of their question concerning tribute to Caesar had failed, the Sadducees next sought to confound and humiliate Jesus. Sadducees held there was no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit, Luke tells us in Acts 23:8. Suppose, now, they said to Jesus, that a woman marries seven brothers in succession, whose wife shall she be in the resurrection? Instead of treating their question as unimportant, Jesus, based upon what is a lofty lesson. "Is it not for this cause that ye err," he courteously replied, "that ye know not the Scriptures, nor the power of God? For when they shall rise from the dead, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are as angels in heaven."

Again Jesus won a victory over his enemies, and again the people marvelled. "Men laid their traps and tried to catch him; he walked bravely in the midst of them and never was entrapped. The intellectual athletes of his time tried to trip him—they never did. His enemies did their best to upset him—they never could."

The Resurrection of the Dead. 1 Corinthians 15:50-58. Such a spiritual body as Paul has been speaking about (verses 35-49) is absolutely necessary in the Kingdom of God. Human nature in its habitation of flesh and blood cannot take possession of the Kingdom of God; nor does corruption take possession of incorruption. Corruption of earthly bodies is inevitable, but the spiritual life resident in them will continue in the hereafter.

Paul attempts to describe the transformation of the living and the dead that will take place on the great day of the Lord when the trumpet will sound. Evidently he thought that day might come even in his lifetime. "Behold, I tell you a mystery," he exclaims. The true meaning of the word "mystery," we know, is not something that puzzles and perplexes one; rather it is an open secret waiting to be discovered. (1 Th. 4:16; Mt. 24:31; Rev. 11:15).

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

PASTEURIZED MILK

To the half truths and misconceptions about raw and pasteurized milk, Frank Chamberlain replies with a factual article in Health, the official organ of the Health League of Canada.

"Since Ontario pasteurized its milk by law," states Mr. Chamberlain, "there has been a striking reduction in the incidence of disease known to be connected with raw milk."

Mr. Chamberlain quotes Dr. Alan Brown, physician-in-chief of the Hospital for Sick Children, as saying: "Scientific pasteurization absolutely prevents the 15 to 20 per cent. of bone, gland and abdominal tuberculosis in children which is of bovine origin, and in addition prevents all milk-borne epidemics. The prevention of these conditions alone would save many lives, numerous cripples and much money for the taxpayer each year."

Besides tuberculosis, unpasteurized milk spreads such epidemics as Typhoid, Paratyphoid, Scarlet Fever and Septic Sore Throat. The writer cites an instance of epidemic septic sore throat, an epidemic which where an outbreak of 10,000 cases was traced to one raw milk supply.

"Informed people oppose pasteurization because it supposedly damages milk, destroying calcium and vitamins—that it spoils the taste," he writes. He denies any truth to such statements. Pasteurization does not alter the calcium content of milk. Vitamin C, which prevents scurvy, is said to be reduced slightly by pasteurization. Vitamin D which prevents rickets—is not affected at all. "But, Mr. Chamberlain points out, 'in any case there is not enough of either vitamin C or D in cows milk to supply the needs of the growing infant and all babies should be given orange juice to supply the deficiency in Vitamin C and cod liver oil to supply the necessary Vitamin D.'"

CHAPTER XV.

Ransome wondered what the other guests would think if he did what his heart dictated. Now, he thought grimly glancing down the whiteness of the linen, the sparkling of the glass and silver—now would be a good time. Just in between the last course and the coffee.

If the stories he had heard of old Knox Randolph were true, then he had his example before him. His eyes studied the young man in the portrait before him. Strong, handsome features, arrogant and proud, blue eyes like Tami's, jutting black brows. Delicate embroidery of a flower in the open waistcoat, and flowing tie at throat. Tight knee breeches and elegant boots.

Knox had pounded over the turf of the downs and won the derby and Tami Ellery. The story went that he did not stop at the Judge's stand for his winnings, but swept up to the crowd of young men and women. Reaching out in his saddle, he had swooped up Tami Ellery right out of the very arms of his rival.

And they had been married an hour later right at Shadwell.

Ranny thought, if he had his horse, Tahlahneka II, here, it would be easy enough! "I'm sorry, what is it, Selby?" he was caught in the stream of conversation once more.

And thus the evening went. He must talk and he must listen whether he wanted to or not. And Christopher Sande could warm his traditionally cold Yankee heart by the light of Tom's eyes. It made a cold, hard, aching feeling in Ranny's chest.

He was glad when dinner was over and the evening half through.

They returned to the living room.

and went from there to the terrace, to sit on the shadowed lawn bathed in moonlight. Now and then a car passed on the highway, with its radio drifting back soft dance music. Ransome stirred restlessly. What a gorgeous night to waste on Christopher Sande and Selby.

The next day Tamar watched Sande leave to go back to his hotel in the little town of Tahlahneka. It left the other hours barren and empty.

The summer months were drifting by, she realized with a start one day. In the weeks since the dinner, she had seen Ransome Todd but a few times. And on those occasions they had been dancing at the Roistain. She and Christopher had gone two or three times each week to the night club. Her days were filled with thoughts of the last date with him, and with anticipation of the next. Occasionally, she went on her mare, Madcap, to the mine because the sound of the dynamite blasts no longer frightened the animal.

Today Tamar paused by the meadow fence and waited for Madcap to gallop up to the bars. Aristotele stood by with the saddle ready to put on the pretty animal.

"Ridin' over to de Cricket Hill?" Aristotele asked, tightening the cinch.

Tamar drew on her green suede riding gloves. She stood straight and slender in her jodhpurs, white silk shirt open low at her throat, a boy's cap with long peak shading her eyes, and trying to confine her black curls. "Yes, Aristotele. Tell Phoebe please, to go ahead and have lunch. I may be late getting back. Tell her that I'm going to ride over to Selby's from the Cricket Hill."

As she walked Madcap down the lane, Tamar wondered if he would remember to tell Phoebe. She felt just a trifle conscience-stricken to ride away from the house this morning, for she had thought there was an almost imperceptible change in her mother when she took the breakfast tray to her.

As she rode along on the shoulder of the highway, keeping Madcap off the hard paving, she worried about the expression she had caught on Dr. Forrester's face the last time she had talked with him concerning her mother's condition.

But in the past two weeks, Maria Randolph had even sat at the breakfast table with them a few times. Dr. Forrester had not mentioned the operation to her, and she finally asked him. Now, she realized, he had avoided a direct answer. Was her mother's strength too frail for her to undergo a major operation. Or did the doctor think it was unnecessary? Then a thought assailed her. Her hand leaped to her lips as though to keep the thought from speaking itself. Could it be too late?

As coldness crept over her, Tamar urged Madcap forward suddenly. She passed the turning off point from the highway to the mine at a swift gallop, and headed straight on into Tahlahneka. The town was deserted as usual at 10 o'clock in the morning. Only a straggling shopper or two, glancing indifferently at the windows.

Tamar tied Madcap to the ancient hitching post that stood near the new bank building. She flew up the wooden steps to the doctor's office. Miss Carey looked up in astonishment as Tamar burst in at the door.

"Your mother, Tamar?" She isn't worse?" Miss Carey asked.

"I don't think so. Is the doctor in?"

Tamar heard the shuffling steps in the inner office, and the kindly old doctor put his gray beard through the door. "Looking for me, Tam?"

"Come on in."

Her blue eyes bored into the doctor who had not only brought her in to the world, but also had seen her through measles and mumps, whooping cough and malaria and knew her almost as well as her parents.

"Please tell me the truth, Uncle Doc," her voice demanded. "Why aren't you going to operate on mother?"

A direct question that would accept no hedging this time.

"Now, see here, Tam—"

In that moment Tamar knew the truth. There was no need to perform an operation that would be of no benefit to her mother. It would only serve to lessen the number of her days. She spoke no word, and the doctor's voice had flourished into silence.

Tamar came out of the dim recesses of the hall into the glaring whiteness of the hot sun. She must not let her mother know that she had learned about this. Life at Shadwell must go on as usual.

Tamar wanted desperately to gallop back home to throw herself into her mother's arms, but that was denied her.

Instead, she turned Madcap into the side road leading up to the Cricket Hill. Before she reached the mine, however, she turned the mare once more; this time up an old wagon track which led to her favorite picnic site. The weeds had grown up on both sides of the roads, and stood rank and dusty.

A hard aching lump was in her throat, and she needed to cry to dissolve the painfully numb feeling that held her. She tied Madcap to a small sapling and sat down on a fallen log. It was difficult to imagine life without her mother.

When the tears came they left Tamar a crumpled heap, washing out the tight feeling in her throat, and the pain in her heart. Her face was streaked and her eyes swollen.

After a while she walked slowly up the river bank to a clump of small persimmon trees, and taking off her clothes, dived off the steep bank into the river. The cool water laved her velvety skin, and she swam in graceful strokes down stream, drifting idly with the current.

After her swim she sat down on the log again and let the breeze dry her skin.

In a flash Tamar was off the log and running toward her clothes. Some one was coming along the old trail. She wondered who it could possibly be.

Tamar was still buttoning her shirt when she heard a man's voice: "Fatten says that no one ever comes here. It would be the perfect place, I think."

Major Towne's voice answered: "It's something we'll have to be sure of. We can't afford to take any chances."

Tamar gasped. Major Towne! Instantly she remembered her first impression of distrust for the man.

Tamar's heart beat quickly. In this impossible way she had stumbled onto something of great importance. If only Madcap wouldn't give her away now. She moved over to the tangle of small growth carefully crouching down out of sight.

The major was at the wheel of his big black car, and the man with him she had seen in the office at the Cricket Hill. He was one of their own workmen.

"The most important thing, of course, is to work everything out carefully, timing it to accurate precision, so there can be no slip-up. If we should fail this time, it would never do to try again."

The younger man laughed, and Tamar shuddered. There was something sinister in that laugh, cold and calculating. "There won't be a slip-up, Major, for I've decided not to use any of these Southern gentlemen. I've gone so far as to hire some really tough birds, you know the ones that pulled the last deal. They'll get here in a couple of weeks or so."

The Major looked about hastily. "Shut up Nick! You don't know what trees have ears."

"I never want to go through another job like that one. The cop 'Hell! What's that?" He opened the car door.

"Nothing! Sit down, Nick. You make me nervous."

"Thought I heard something over there. Guess it's my imagination."

Demand For Poultry

Has Been Notably Heavy In Canada Since War Started

Never before have the people of Canada shown such a taste for poultry meat as they have recently, the Agriculture Department stated recently. Reports to the Department from dealers in dressed poultry in all parts of Canada are to the effect that the war-time demand for poultry of all kinds, particularly chickens, has been notably heavy. Due to the substantial increase in the number of poultry on farms in the past year as a result of the large orders for Canadian eggs placed by the British Ministry of Food, more birds have been marketed and now there are large stocks of high quality poultry on hand.

As an indication of the recent demand the Bureau of Statistics reports that the out-of-storage movement of dressed poultry in February of this year was 27 million pounds compared with 14 million pounds in the corresponding month of 1941.

Crop Rotation

A suitable rotation of crops is of major importance in the control of weeds. Some crops check certain species of weeds, while other crops are wholly ineffective. Wild oats, for example, are eradicated by two or three years in hay or pasture. A vigorous stand of alfalfa for two or three years eliminates Canada thistle and perennial woolly thistle. Hood crops, if perfectly worked are cleaning crops. Grain on the other hand, encourages the growth of weeds.

Processed Eggs

Canadian Shipments To Britain Will Be In Powder Form

Much of western Canada's huge egg production is being processed in carload lots for shipment to Great Britain in powder form. A drying plant is being operated at Winnipeg and has already processed a considerable volume of eggs from the three prairie provinces.

Five such drying plants are now in operation in Canada and the first shipment of egg powder has been made to the United Kingdom.

According to western officials of the poultry industry, practically all future shipments of eggs from Canada to the Motherland will be in the nature of powder.

Principal object of processing eggs for overseas is to conserve ocean shipping space. A case of eggs weighs about 60 pounds, officials state, while the same eggs in powder form and packed in a tin weigh only about 12 pounds.

As egg production is now double that of a year ago, officials feel confident that a steady flow of egg powder will be maintained to Britain from western provinces.

Gardening

Layouts

For flowers, lawns and shrubs about the average house, landscape gardeners strictly advise informal planting. This is especially desirable where space is limited as it tends to soften the narrow, rigid fence lines and to add an air of spaciousness even to a 20-foot lot. In an informal garden, the central portion of the ground is entirely in grass. Around the edges of this will be grouped beds of perennial and annual flowers, leading up to shrubs and vines along the walls or fence boundaries.

Where the garden is larger, experts advocate screening off a portion by bringing forward the surrounding shrubbery at one point, or using a hedge, wall or trees so that the whole garden will not be entirely visible from any one point of observation. This will add further to that air of spaciousness and also provide a secluded corner or two for a child's swing or sandbox or, possibly, a seat or trellis-covered table.

Vegetable Groups

Vegetables are roughly divided into three planting groups—hardy, semi-hardy and tender. Among the first are spinach, all sorts of lettuce, radish and garden peas. A little frost will not hurt these.

Second planted vegetables will be carrots, beans, cabbage, potatoes and similar things. These will resist a fair amount of cold. Tender vegetables include corn, melons, cucumbers and tomatoes. Nothing is to be gained by planting these before danger of frost is over.

With most vegetables it is advisable to make at least three sowings in the garden, so as to the effect to spread the harvest that much longer over the season. Further spreading of the season is secured by sowing three kinds of each vegetable—an early, a medium and a late variety which will result in a continuous supply of really fresh vegetables for weeks longer than usual.

Nursery Stock

Nursery stock (shrubby, fruit trees, vines, etc.) should be planted as soon as the soil is fit to work, and if purchased before this time, or if inconvenient to plant, roots should be temporarily covered with moist earth, or plants should be stored in a cool, dark cellar and roots kept moist.

EASY TO TURN OUT ARE ALL-BRAN TURNOVERS

Do your family a good turn and turn out a batch of All-Bran Turnovers. There's nothing hard about the tempting new dessert with its crisp, golden crust, and sweet, taste-tempting filling of prunes. And there are vitamins and minerals in it, too, so there's no need to be conscious-stricken if desserts are off the list for the duration. The recipe goes like this:

All-Bran Turnovers

1½ cup All-Bran
1½ cups flour
1½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons cold water (more or less)
1½ cups sweetened, chopped, cooked prunes.
Roll All-Bran until fine and combine with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out on lightly floured board to about one-eighth inch in thickness. Prune rounds (5 inches in diameter) with cutter. On half of round place a spoonful of chopped prunes which have been only partially drained. Put a dot of butter on top. Moisten edge of dough. Fold other half over to cover prunes and crimp down edges, using a fork or pastry crimper. Brush with milk and place on a greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot with prune sauce.

1 cup sweetened juice from prunes ¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon corn ½ tablespoon lemon juice
Add juice gradually to corn starch, stirring until smooth. Add salt and cook until thick and clear. Stir in lemon juice and find and serve hot on turnovers.

PIANO LEARNED BY SHORT-CUT METHOD

Pianist Is Appreciated Today

Gay piano music certainly helps in these tense times! The girl who played so well that night— isn't forgotten.

If you've wanted for years to learn the piano, do it now! You can quickly teach yourself.

You stand a chart of the piano keyboard behind the real keyboard and, at your very first glance, you can see which piano keys correspond to which notes.

How? The paper keyboard has a staff of written notes with it—A with an arrow pointing to the A key, and so on.

In this way you quickly learn to read music and you can quickly learn a lot of popular pieces, too, a short-cut way. Play the melody with your right hand, simple chords with your left.

In learning these chords, your chart helps again. Its keys are numbered and you're shown by number which keys to play for each chord. See our diagram.

Our 24-page instruction book has life-size, numbered keyboard chart with easy step-by-step piano lessons. Explains elements of music, gives table of chords, three pieces for practice.

Send 15c (in coins) for your copy of "Quick Course in Piano Playing" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each:

- 130—"World's Best-Loved Poems"
- 164—"Party Games For All Occasions"
- 105—"How to Make Rock Gardens and Lily Pools"

New War Material

Boards Made Of Glass Fibres Are Substitute For Cork

A new car material, glass boards, made of glass fibres finer than any human hair, has been announced by the Owens-Corning Fibreglass Corporation, New York.

These glass boards are intended as substitutes for cork, which comes from Spain and Portugal and is getting short. The new glass may not make good bottle corks, but it will replace cork for cold refrigerator insulation and for roof insulation.

The glass fibres are pressed by machinery into the shape of boards one to two inches thick, a foot wide and three feet long. The glass is finally coated with asphalt, to make it impervious to water.

Advantages claimed for glass boards: rats and mice can't gnaw them, bugs won't crawl in because they don't like glass, they won't rot or decay in any way because fungi can't live on glass.

Have Patience!

Numerous enquiries have been received by members of the local National War Finance committee regarding the late arrival of war savings certificates.

The committee points out that hundreds of thousands of Canadians are buying war savings regularly and since there is only a limited staff at Ottawa to record these sales and issue certificates a considerable time elapses before a purchaser receives his certificate. In many instances local purchasers have had the price of two or more certificates deducted from their wages before receiving the first purchased certificate from Ottawa. It's just a case of having a little patience, you'll get your certificates in due course. Few, if any, are ever lost.

FOR THE PEOPLE TO DECIDE

In this democratic land, compulsory measures are not in favour, but the public must face the fact that expenditures will inevitably increase and that the money must be provided by self-imposed discipline and "unlimited investment of savings" in government loans. It is for the Canadian people to prove that voluntary methods of financing are sufficient for the great national purposes to be served.—The Hamilton Spectator.
